This month we are talking about...

Consultation on The Reform Of Adult Social Care

Adult social care describes the activities, services and relationships that help us to live an independent, healthy and inclusive life. It is available to any adult with eligible needs who requires assistance due to disability, vulnerability, illness, incapacity or old age, and is designed to promote independence, social inclusion, safeguarding and wellbeing'.

Adult Social Care is a vital part of our Health and Social Care System and impacts on the lives of people across society including people who use social care services, family carers and the people who work in social care.

The pandemic has shone a light on the invaluable role social care plays in people's lives and the wellbeing of our society. It has also revealed the many challenges faced in provision and the need to reform our social care system.

Come along to one of our upcoming virtual Hubs to hear about the Consultation on The Reform of Adult Social Care.
