One of our staff recently met with a group to assist with funding advice and came away feeling very much appreciated. Just before leaving one of the leaders said, "Thank you. We don't know what we would do without you." Over the years we have helped them with advice in governance, training, funding and general programmes. It is great to see them grow stronger and flourish as a group. It is always good to know we are making a difference in the community when we receive your thanks.

Information

Has your community group a Programme in place for the Autumn and Winter?

Before Planning anything or Applying for Funding there needs to be some preparation done in advance. Here are the key things to think about...

What you want to do Who wants to do it When do you want to do it How much it's going to cost

Let's break it down

It is important to find out what people want rather than one or two deciding

- use a survey or chat to your members. Keep a list of suggestions from your members to use in the future,

- don't try to do everything in one season.

Determine your audience – age, gender, abilities

do you need a range of activities to cover different ages?
Get togethers don't always need to cost money but plan ahead for those that do allow at least 12 weeks for response to funding applications

Some events can be arranged at little or no cost to bring people together which creates a positive atmosphere. Plan a programme and then look for funding – that way you meet the needs of your own group and community.

Examples of a good programme would have a mix of talks, demonstrations, taster sessions and outings. Food is always popular, but most of all, the interaction between people on a social level is essential. Something that most funders look for is evidence that the activities planned will improve people's sense of wellbeing and mental health.

The Take 5 initiative from Health and Social Care is a great starting point. Really Important :Don't try to do everything yourself – share the work

Most of us know when we are mentally and physically well, but sometimes we need a little extra support to keep well.

There are five simple steps to help steps to wellbeing maintain and improve your wellbeing. Try to build these into your daily life – think of them as your 'five a day' for wellbeing.

Connect

Connect with the people around you: family, friends, colleagues and neighbours at home, work, school or in your local community. Think of these relationships as the cornerstones of your life and spend time developing them. Building these connections will support and enrich you every day.

Be active

Go for a walk or run, cycle, play a game, garden or dance. Exercising makes you feel good. Most importantly, discover a physical activity that you enjoy; one that suits your level of mobility and fitness.

Take notice

Stop, pause, or take a moment to look around you. What can you see, feel, smell or even taste? Look for beautiful, new, unusual or extraordinary things in your everyday life and think about how that makes you feel.

Keep learning

Don't be afraid to try something new, rediscover an old hobby or sign up for a course. Take on a different responsibility, fix a bike, learn to play an instrument or how to cook your favourite food. Set a challenge you will enjoy. Learning new things will make you more confident, as well as being fun to do.

Give

Do something nice for a friend or stranger, thank someone, smile, volunteer your time or consider joining a community group. Look out as well as in. Seeing yourself and your happiness linked to the wider community can be incredibly rewarding and will create connections with the people around you.
